NOTICE TO EDITORS OF AMERICAN JOURNALS.

THE Editors of this Journal are most anxious to open a communication with the Editors of American Medical Journals. They request, however, that copies of the latter may not be sent by Post. This day they paid seventeen shillings for one Number of the Boston Weekly Medical Journal! and they have been several times obliged to refuse various American Journals forwarded to them during the last year, on account of the enormous postage demanded.

Our American friends will therefore desire their English correspondents to forward copies of their works intended for this Journal to Messrs. Hodges and Smith, through Longman, Rees, and Co., Paternoster Row, London.
