

Erratum to: A National Study of Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual (LGB), and Non-LGB Youth Sexual Behavior Online and In-Person

Michele L. Ybarra¹ · Kimberly J. Mitchell²

Published online: 16 May 2016
© Springer Science+Business Media New York 2016

Erratum to: Arch Sex Behav
DOI 10.1007/s10508-015-0491-7

On page 9 of the online first version, in the section entitled “Differences among lesbian, gay, and queer women,” the following sentence is incorrect: “Sexual concurrency, vaginal or anal sex with a sex toy or finger, and inconsistent condom use were additionally suggested to be related to meeting one’s most recent partner online than in-person, although none of these differences were not statistically significant.” As accurately shown in Table 5, “none of these differences were statistically significant.”

The online version of the original article can be found under doi:10.1007/s10508-015-0491-7.

✉ Michele L. Ybarra
michele@innovativepublichealth.com;
Michele@InnovativePublicHealth.org

¹ Center for Innovative Public Health Research, 555 El Camino Real, #A347, San Clemente, CA 92672, USA

² Crimes Against Children Research Center, University of New Hampshire, Durham, NH, USA