ERRATA

In "Metaphysics and Absolute Presuppositions," by Jay Newman, which appeared in Volume 6, Number 3 of MAN AND WORLD, two errors have been found : On page 287, lines 23-24 the passage should read "Yet, it was precisely Dilthey's psychologism that Collingwood rejected in his critique of Dilthey's views on history in The Idea of History." On page 289, lines 9-10 should read : "Collingwood must become more than the defender of metaphysical beliefs in general, but the defender of particular metaphysical beliefs as well."
