Successful treatment of chronic wound infection in neutropenia and rheumatoid with filgrastim (rhG-CSF)

Ann Hematol (1994) 69:153–156

Due to a technical mishap the legends to Figs. 1 and 2 were exchanged. Please note the correct legend to Fig. 1:

Fig. 1A–D The area of the infected ulcer is shown before treatment (A and B) and after medical and surgical intervention (C and D)

A non-revised version of Fig. 2 was published. The correct Fig. 2 is printed below:

Fig. 2 White blood cell counts (WBC) and absolute neutrophil count (ANC) after institution of filgrastim (Neupogen) therapy (150 µg once daily s.c.) starting on day 3 after admission and antibiotics. □ Total WBC; ■ Granulocytes
