Portions of the article “Spatial–temporal interactions in the human brain” (Oliveri, Koch, and Caltagirone, EBR, 2009) were reproduced verbatim from “Time in the mind: using space to think about time” (Casasanto and Boroditsky, Cognition, 2008). Specifically, the section of Oliveri, Koch, and Caltagirone’s article called “Tau and Kappa effects” (pp. 489–490) was excerpted from Casasanto and Boroditsky’s paper. Other passages on pp. 492–493 were also quoted or closely paraphrased from Casasanto and Boroditsky (2008), without appropriate quotation or citation. The authors apologize for this omission, and acknowledge that portions of their paper were not original.

The following citation was erroneously omitted from the references section of Oliveri et al.’s paper:

Casasanto D, Boroditsky L (2008) Time in the mind: using space to think about time. Cognition 106:579–593.
