In the original publication of this article, the following sentence on p. 29 should have read: ‘Caloric vestibular stimulation (CVS) is a physiological technique demonstrated to transiently improve hemianaesthesia in right brain-damaged patients (Vallar et al. in Cortex 26(1):123–31, 1990; Vallar et al. in Brain 116:71–86, 1993; Bottini et al. in Nature 376:778–781, 1995)’ instead of ‘right brain-damaged patients (Bottini et al. in Exp Brain Res 99(1):164–169, 1994, Nature 376:778–781, 1995, Neurology 65(8):1278–1283, 2005)’ as given.

Moreover, on p. 35, the sentence should be read: ‘Moreover, CVS with cold water in the left ear can transiently improve hemianaesthesia in right brain-damaged patients (Vallar et al., 1990, 1993; Bottini et al. 1995)’ instead of ‘patients (Bottini et al. 1994, 1995, 2001).

In addition, the citation on p. 30 and p. 35 should be ‘Been et al. 2007’.

Finally, the following references should have read as follows:
