In this issue, the reader will find the new structure of the table of contents. The scientific community is invited to send manuscripts on scientific work in the whole field of obstetrics and gynecology. As in the past, these will be published in the different categories: Reviews, Maternal Fetal Medicine, General Gynecology, Gynecologic Oncology and Gynecologic Endocrinology and Reproductive Medicine. Comments on this scientific work can be sent to the Editor-in-Chief. They will be published in the category “Letters to the Editor”. We invite authors to submit case reports. However, these will only be published if they are of high quality, broad interest and should include a systematic review of the literature if possible. In the section “News and Views”, we will publish short articles on subjects of special interest and current controversies. Scientific societies of obstetrics and gynecology or working groups on subspecialties are invited to submit guidelines and position statements, which will be published in a special section. Please feel free to send comments or suggestions leading to further improvement of the quality of the journal.

Conflict of interest None.
