Dear Reader,

The Editorial Board of Archives of Gynecology and Obstetrics has successfully improved the quality of the journal during the last years. The journal receives currently more than 1500 submissions per year from all over the world. In the last years, editorial management has clearly improved with a reduced duration of review processes with an average time of 15 days from acceptance to online first publication. Since 2016, the journal is available only in electronic version. The improvement of quality is also demonstrated by an increase of the impact factor, which is currently 2.09. We are grateful to the OB-GYN Scientific Community for sending their manuscripts. Outstanding editors, associate editors, editorial board members, and reviewers have greatly contributed to the successful development of the journal. You are invited to submit manuscripts for publication in the different categories. We also appreciate your suggestions leading to further improvement of quality.
