“A study of vertebrobasilar artery dissection with subarachnoid hemorrhage”

Reported by S. Nakajima, T. Tsukahara, K. Minematsu, In surgical management of cerebrovascular disease, Acta Neurochirurgica Supplementum, Vol. 107, 45–49

Kazuo Minematsu • Tetsuya Tsukahara

Published online: 24 April 2010
© Springer-Verlag 2010

It is a report on the Japanese nationwide multicenter clinical study on spontaneous cerebral arterial dissection (SCAD study) supported by a research grant for Cardiovascular Diseases (18C-5) from the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare, Japan. The content of the report, however, is not the general consensus of the SCAD study group. We are preparing a formal report of the research in time. Thank you.

K. Minematsu (✉)
SCAD Study Group, Department of Cerebrovascular Medicine,
National Cerebral and Cardiovascular Center,
Osaka, Japan
e-mail: kminemat@hsp.ncvc.go.jp

T. Tsukahara
SCAD Study Group, Department of Neurosurgery,
National Hospital Organization Kyoto Medical Center,
Kyoto, Japan
e-mail: ttsukaha@kyotolan.hosp.go.jp