We invite the submission of oncological reviews to the new Clinical Section of the internationally renowned Cancer Metastasis Reviews (CMR) Journal. The purpose of this section is to bridge the gap between “the bench and the bed side.” Reviews should focus on modern treatment modalities/intervention (of all branches of medicine), with special emphasis on the difference between the primary cancer and its metastases and the influence of secondary growth in a particular organ on the clinical decision/approaches.

CMR is a Basic/Medical Review quarterly published journal that will consider reviews aiming at extending, spreading, or illuminating medical oncology with a special emphasis on the most devastating aspect of oncology, i.e., metastasis, and will serve as a platform for spreading oncological updates, which currently are not found elsewhere.
