A limitation in the use of the Session Rating Scale (SRS; Miller, Duncan & Johnson, 2002) was that the modified therapist version of the measure was not validated. In relation to this, the authors of the SRS were consulted in the planning phase of the study design before the rewording of the SRS for use by the therapist. However, they did not adopt the final version. This being so, a violation of the copyright and licensing agreement occurred, for which the authors apologize.
