Dear Colleagues,

The issue at hand includes two invited papers related to sustainability and clean environment issues. I consider them very important contributions, enlightening and also a wakeup call for what we do to our planet. It is true (my personal opinion) that if we do not protect the environment and nature, the consequences will be tremendous in the future; needless to say that we have already witnessed unexpected phenomena and major disasters worldwide.

The rest of the issue includes three regular papers, one of which is in Unmanned Systems.

Our Journal is healthy, and we always try to find ways to optimize the review cycle and publish the accepted papers in a timely way.

Enjoy the issue.
