The Year That Was: 2010

In the blink of an eye, a year of accomplishments has taken place. Our increased Impact Factor represents the highest in the 2005–2009 timeframe for the journal Sexuality and Disability. The international and diverse flavor of our articles brings the world a bit closer through informational sharing of communities, topics and experiences. Being online and in print prepares us to meet the goal of access. Your scholarly contributions prepare us to meet the goal to have meaningful impact. Suddenly we are looking into the New Year.

What vision for direction and foundation knowledge will we find? Stay tune!

Sexuality and Disability provides original impact articles addressing the mental health and medical aspects of sexuality in relation to rehabilitation, hospital, academic and community settings, publishing up-to-date articles, case studies, clinical practice reports, reviews, featured articles, historical articles, special grand rounds topics, brief research reports and survey data reports. Value benefit is provided to authors through worldwide electronic exposure and professional access, while readership gains from scholarly contributions to advance the field through research, best-practice and educational articles. The refined lens of individual contributions from the local and international community continues to deliver a wealth of information on the topic of sexuality and disability for the reader.
