ERRATUM

Erratum to: Inferior vena cava filters: current best practices

Anita Rajasekhar¹

Published online: 11 June 2015

© Springer Science+Business Media New York 2015

Erratum to: J Thromb Thrombolysis (2015)
39:315–327
DOI 10.1007/s11239-015-1187-5

In the original publication, a reference was mistakenly omitted by the author during manuscript preparation. The reference should be cited after the statement “Internationally, US providers place far more IVCFs compared to European providers by a staggering 25:1 IVCF placement ratio with no significant difference in annual VTE-related deaths [16–18]” on p. 316 of the April 2015 issue of The Journal of Thrombosis and Thrombolysis.

The missing reference is: Wang SL, Lloyd AJ (2013) Clinical review: inferior vena cava filters in the age of patient-centered outcomes. Ann Med 45:474–481.

The online version of the original article can be found under doi:10.1007/s11239-015-1187-5.

✉ Anita Rajasekhar
rajasa@medicine.ufl.edu

¹ University of Florida College of Medicine, Health Science Center, PO Box 100278, Gainesville, FL 32610, USA