Fulfilling the Promise of Hospital Medicine: Tailoring Internal Medicine Training to Address Hospitalists' Needs

Jeffrey J. Glasheen, MD^{1,2,3}, Eric M. Siegal, MD⁴, Kenneth Epstein, MD⁵, Jean Kutner, MD², and Allan V. Prochazka, MD⁶

¹Internal Medicine Residency Training Program, University of Colorado Denver School of Medicine, Aurora, CO, USA; ²Division of General Internal Medicine, Department of Medicine, University of Colorado Denver School of Medicine, Aurora, CO, USA; ³Hospital Medicine Service, University of Colorado Denver School of Medicine, Aurora, CO, USA; ⁴Cogent Healthcare, University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health, Madison, WI, USA; ⁵Medical Affairs and Clinical Research, IPC-The Hospitalist Company, University of Colorado Denver School of Medicine, Aurora, CO, USA; ⁶Denver VA Medical Center, University of Colorado Denver School of Medicine, Aurora, CO, USA.

J Gen Intern Med 23(11):1931

DOI: 10.1007/s11606-008-0774-y

© Society of General Internal Medicine 2008

The original manuscript number was erroneously retained in the title of this paper; the title should read simply "Fulfilling the Promise of Hospital Medicine: Tailoring Internal Medicine Training to Address Hospitalists' Needs."