We would like to amend our previous submission by clarifying the suspected country of origin, if applicable, to each reported case of adrenal histoplasmosis listed in the supplementary table. Also we would specifically like to correct the erroneous number of cases reported from Belgium, which was inadvertently combined with other cases reported in Europe. The PubMed literature search of “adrenal histoplasmosis” between 1971 and 2012 yielded a total of 230 cases, including 111 reports of adrenal insufficiency (48.3 %). All changes are reflected in the revised index enclosed.
