Erratum to: J Dev Life Course Criminology DOI 10.1007/s40865-016-0046-1

The original version of this article unfortunately contained mistakes and the authors hereby publishing these corrections.

The sentence on page 13 in the published paper is misleading: “Thus, the approach taken to prevent gang involvement as well as intervene with actively involved girls needs to move away from the purely punitive strategies seen in many systems that girls are engaged in, such as zero tolerance policies in schools and gang enhancement laws in juvenile justice systems.” Instead, it should read: “Thus, the approach taken to prevent gang involvement as well as intervene with actively involved girls needs to move away from the purely punitive strategies seen in many systems that girls are engaged in, such as zero tolerance policies in schools and criminal gang enhancement laws that are imposed on juvenile offenders.”

With these, the original article was corrected.
