

Chapter 7

Training/Expertise of the Operators

In order to ensure the correctness of results obtained thanks to simulation the operator responsible of the simulation campaign must have the following skills and knowledge:

- Use of the simulation software
- Knowledge on the inspection method that is simulated and its practical implementation on field
- Knowledge of the range of validity of simulation models and their application conditions
- Knowledge on the hypothesis underlying the statistical methodology of POD curve estimation.