

Erratum

Prevention by the MER Tubercle Bacillus Fraction of Immunosuppression Induced by Cancer Chemotherapeutic Agents

III. Contact Hypersensitivity to Dinitrofluorobenzene in Mice Treated with Methotrexate, 5-Fluorouracil or Cyclophosphamide, or Exposed to Dinitrobenzene-Sulfonate

Cancer Immunol Immunother (1982) 10: 147–155

Chava Zimber, Shlomo Ben-Efraim, and David W. Weiss

One of the authors was inadvertently omitted on the title page of this article

Department of Human Microbiology, Sackler School of Medicine, Tel-Aviv University, Tel-Aviv, Israel, and
The Lautenberg Center for General and Tumor Immunology, Hebrew University-Hadassah Medical School, Jerusalem, Israel

Please insert Norman B. Grover between the last two names.

Reprint requests should be addressed to C. Zimber, Department of Human Microbiology, Sackler School of Medicine, Tel-Aviv University, Tel-Aviv, Israel