

21. Robertson WG, Scurr DS, Bridge M (1981) Factors influencing the crystallisation of calcium oxalate in urine – critique. J Cryst Growth 53:182
22. Rushton HG, Spector M, Rodgers AL, Magura CE (1980) Crystal deposition in the renal tubules of hyperoxaluric and hypermagneseemic rats. Scanning Electron Microsc 3:387
23. Scholz D, Schwille PO (1981) Klinische Laboratoriumsdiagnostik der Urolithiasis. Dtsch med Wochenschr 106:229
24. Scholz D, Schwille PO, Ulbrich D, Bausch WM, Sigel A (1979) Composition of renal stones and their frequency in a stone clinic: relationship to parameters of mineral metabolism in serum and urine. Urol Res 7:161
25. Schwille PO, Manoharan M, Rümenapf G, Wölfel G, Berens H (1989) Oxalate measurement in the picomol range by ion chromatography: values in fasting plasma and urine of controls and patients with idiopathic calcium urolithiasis. J Clin Chem Clin Biochem 27:87
26. Smith LH (1978) Calcium containing renal stones. Kidney Int 13:383
27. Werness PG, Bergert JH, Smith LH (1981) Crystalluria. J Cryst Growth 53:166
28. Winkens RAG, Wiolders JPM, van Hoof JP (1988) Calcium oxalate crystalluria, a curiosity or a diagnostical aid? (Letter to the editor). J Clin Chem Clin Biochem 26:653

Prof. Dr. P. O. Schwille
 Chirurgische Klinik
 Universitätskrankenhaus
 Maximiliansplatz 1
 W-8520 Erlangen
 Federal Republic of Germany

Erratum

Urol Res (1992) 20:77

P. O. Schwille and U. Herrmann

Environmental Factors of the Pathophysiology of Recurrent Idiopathic Calcium Urolithiasis (RCU), with Emphasis on Nutrition.

Due to an unfortunate error, Fig. 3 of this article was incorrectly lettered; instead of "Hydroxyapatite" it should have read "Hydroxypyruvate".