From that beginning, Jim has become a dedicated supporter of the total potato industry, a fact generally recognized by all. Of all of his contributions, perhaps his most significant impact has been in the development of improved chipping varieties. He has worked very closely with the breeding and variety testing programs from Maine to Florida. His special contributions have been, in addition to his own knowledge and enthusiasm, his talent for stimulating researchers of several disciplines to work together. He has been Mr. Catalyst for developing today's successful cooperation among the researchers of the Eastern Seaboard.

Jim's local contributions, other than scientific, are numerous. Through his wide knowledge of the problems of both growers and processors, he has helped make each aware of the other's problems.

He has worked closely with 4-H potato chip clubs. Many of the earlier 4-H members are now commercial growers in Pennsylvania. He has served several terms as a member of the Governor's Potato Advisory Committee for the State of Pennsylvania. With Jim's support, Wise Foods began in 1957 to finance a graduate assistantship in potato breeding at The Pennsylvania State University. To him belongs a large share of the credit for passage of The Pennsylvania Marketing Order which now provides funding for potato breeding in Pennsylvania.

Jim is married and has five children.

Jim is a long-time member and willing supporter of The Potato Association of America. We wish him many more years as an Honorary Life Member.

ERRATA

The following corrections should be noted in the R.V. Rebois and R.E. Webb article in the June 1979 issue of the Journal, Vol. 56, Number 6:

Page 314, lines 15 and 16, should read: "This is not too surprising since there are close, but not complete, associations between the female feeding sites of reniform and soybean cyst. . . ."

Page 316, second paragraph, line 3, "effects" should read "effect."

On page 315, "commerical" should read "commercial" in the sixth line of next to last paragraph.

In the July 1979 issue, the 11th line, page 355, of the Kloepper, et al. article, word should read "municipal" and run into copy below.
