ANAESTHETIC OPPORTUNITIES IN AUSTRALIA
STAFF ANAESTHETISTS / THE GEELONG HOSPITAL

The Geelong Hospital is an acute general teaching hospital of the University of Melbourne, with a full range of surgical specialties. A Professorial Department of Surgery has been established, and the development of cardiac surgery is planned.
The Hospital has a department staffed with full-time and visiting anaesthetists. The development of research and teaching activities is encouraged. The throughput of surgical patients is being increased and anaesthetists with high quality clinical skills, as well as the motivation to contribute to a teaching hospital department, are encouraged to apply for these positions. Initial appointments of one year, with the opportunity for renewal, will be offered.
Anaesthetists with FRCPC are eligible for specialist recognition in anaesthesia in Australia, subject to approval of training.
The Hospital will assist successful applicants in applying for immigration permits, registration and specialist recognition. Terms and conditions of employment are attractive, and assistance will be provided with travel and accommodation expenses.
Geelong is the provincial capital of Victoria (popn. 200,000) and offers excellent recreational, educational and cultural facilities. Geelong is the gateway to the Bellarine Peninsula and the west coast of Victoria, both areas noted for their fine surf beaches and tourist attractions.
Further information may be obtained from the Director of Anaesthesia, Dr Keith Cronin, on Australia +61-52-267333.
Applicants should send a curriculum vitae containing a recent photo, plus names, addresses and telephone numbers and facsimile numbers of three medical referees to:
Dr. Heather L. Wellington, Director of Medical Services
The Geelong Hospital, PO Box 281, Geelong, Victoria, Australia 3220
Telephone inquiries are welcome on +61-52-267593, and applications may be sent by facsimile on +61-52-213429.
