

New Gold Innovations blog

The previous issue of Gold Bulletin saw the final inclusion of our regular features CatGold News, Gold in the News and Nanotech Gold News. In order to improve the timeliness of the information we have included in these features, we have taken the decision to include this information in a new online format, specifically a 'blog' called Gold Innovations. For those of you not aware, a 'blog' (a contraction of the term weblog) is a website, usually maintained by an individual or group, with regular entries of commentary, descriptions of events, or other material such as graphics or video. We think this is a perfect way to highlight and discuss all things "gold" covering the science, technology and applications of gold in catalysis, electronics, engineering, medicine, nanotechnology and much more.

Visit <http://www.goldinnovationsblog.com> for:

- the latest news on gold science and applications
- opinions from the Gold Bulletin Editors
- thoughts from World Gold Council's Technology Team
- guest contributions from industry leaders and experts

Please do suggest topics for discussion and alert us to the latest industry developments. We look forward to reading your comments online.
