

Second CVIR Online Case Report Supplement: 2010

© Springer Science+Business Media, LLC and the Cardiovascular and Interventional Radiological Society of Europe (CIRSE) 2011

CardioVascular and Interventional Radiology has continued to make a steady increase in quality and content over the past several years. In addition to the growing amount of submitted full scientific articles, CVIR continues to appreciate the value of case-based learning. We remain convinced that case reports play an important role in interventional radiology: they may help to better understand a new procedure; report complications to the interventional community, or deliver a “recipe” for an unusual situation.

Nevertheless, the large number of accepted case reports has resulted in a considerable time gap between online and print publication for many. To minimize this delay, we publish here a substantial set of accepted case reports in an online supplementum.

They are organized by topics and, like any print publication, they offer full online citations and credit.

On behalf of the Editors,
Dierk Vorwerk, MD