The original version of this article unfortunately contained a mistake. The methods section contains the same ‘text’ as the results section in the abstract.

The method section should read as

Methods: A time series design, during which five different representative cohorts (2011, 2013, 2016, 2018 and 2020; N = 4859) were surveyed through an online questionnaire, was used to evaluate trends in dietary patterns over the past decade.

The original article has been corrected.
