The original version of this article unfortunately contained an error. The sentence:

Jonsdottir et al. [18] reviewed sexuality from the neotheoretical framework of sexuality interventions delivered on the internet but focused on synthesizing the characteristics of couple-based intervention studies and recognizing how such interventions are best structured, paying limited attention to outcome evaluation.

Should read:
