focuses on the development of advanced analytical methods for complex polymers. He is the author/co-author of more than 350 scientific papers and he promoted more than 60 postgraduate students (MSc and PhD). In 2013, he published the textbook 'Multidimensional HPLC of Polymers'. The textbook 'Advanced Separation Techniques for Polyolefins' appeared in 2014 and his latest textbook 'Thermal Field-Flow Fractionation of Polymers' was published in 2019.

Harald Pasch is a Distinguished Professor at the Department of Chemistry and Polymer Science, University of Stellenbosch, South Africa. His research
