Missing from Fig. 1 is the text of the stimulus question that was used to assess awareness of Pope Francis's views on climate change, which was displayed directly beneath the image of the pope and read: "Last year, Pope Francis and the Catholic Church issued an Encyclical Letter that called for people of all faiths to work together to address climate change and to better protect the environment. How much have you heard or read about this? {Nothing at all; A slight amount; A moderate amount; A large amount; An extreme amount}"
