

Erratum to: Body Dissatisfaction and the Relevance of Religiosity: A Focus on Ultra-Orthodox Jews in a Community Study of Adult Women

Marjorie C. Feinson¹  · Tzipi Hornik-Lurie²

Published online: 11 February 2016
© Springer Science+Business Media New York 2016

Erratum to: Clin Soc Work J DOI 10.1007/s10615-016-0574-5

During the production process, footnote indicators “a” and “b” on the section headings in Table 2 (a. Modern Orthodox and Ultra-Orthodox^a and b. Secular and Traditional^b) corresponding to the footnotes ^aAbove the diagonal: Modern Orthodox (n = 181). Below the diagonal: Ultra-Orthodox (n = 259) and ^bAbove the diagonal: Secular (n = 179). Below the diagonal: Traditional (n = 166) were removed inadvertently. This has been corrected in the published version.

The online version of the original article can be found under doi:10.1007/s10615-016-0574-5.

✉ Marjorie C. Feinson
mcfnew@gmail.com; falk1@012.net.il

¹ Falk Institute for Behavioral Health Studies, Kfar Shaul, Givat Shaul, 9382408 Jerusalem, Israel

² Faculty of Health Sciences, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, Beersheba, Israel