This issue of volume 12 is dedicated to a special issue for Health Emergency & Care Management co-edited by Angela Testi and Anna Sciomachen of University of Genoa, Italy (please see the editorial next page for further details). In Health Care Management Science, we strive for the quality not quantity of the manuscripts. Thus, among many submissions for this special issue, guest editors were able to accept only four manuscripts that matched to our quality standards. Hence, the remaining space for this special issue is augmented with the regular submissions.
