International Association for Educational and Vocational Guidance

What is the IAEVG?

The International Association for Educational and Vocational Guidance (IAEVG) is the worldwide counsellors’ association and represents individuals as well as national and regional associations concerned with educational and vocational guidance on all continents.

The mission of the IAEVG

The aims of educational and vocational guidance are to assist students and adults in making their personal decisions about learning and work. This is achieved by helping people to:

- understand and appreciate their skills and abilities.
- relate effectively with others.
- explore career alternatives.
- develop appropriate plans for educational and career management.
- promote better vocational qualifications at all levels.
- contribute to equal access for girls and women in education and work.
- integrate successfully in society and the labour market.

The objectives of the Association are:

- to promote and improve communication between people and organizations active in educational and vocational guidance.
- to encourage the continuing professional development of ideas, practice and research in the field of guidance and counselling.
- to collect and disseminate information on the latest educational and vocational guidance practice, study and research.

Benefits of membership of the IAEVG

Joining the IAEVG provides you/your association with:

- the opportunity to develop and learn from valuable relationships with colleagues/other national associations in the global professional community.
- current news from the field via three issues per year of the IAEVG newsletter (distributed in English, French, Spanish and German).
- free access to the refereed International Journal for Educational and Vocational Guidance.
- discounted registration at IAEVG-endorsed international conferences around the world.
- the power to influence the shape of the Association through nominating and voting for members of the Board and Executive.

In addition, the membership of the IAEVG enables careers and educational guidance practitioners and institutions to actively contribute to profession internationally by:

- submitting articles for the IAEVG newsletter and journal.
- presenting at IAEVG endorsed conferences, thereby extending the reach of their innovations and raising their profile in the international community.
- supporting efforts to promote the role of educational and vocational guidance with key international bodies such as UNESCO, ILO, the World Association of Public Employment Services (WAPES) and the Council of Europe (COE).
- supporting efforts to foster educational and vocational guidance in developing countries.

How to become a member?

To learn about the benefits of membership, see <https://iaevg.com/Membership#Benefits>.

To become a member of IAEVG or to renew your membership, simply proceed online at www.iaevg.com, by clicking on the IAEVG logo, then on 'join us' and providing your information (even for renewal, as this is a new system). You can then make your electronic payment in US dollars, Canadian dollars, Euros or British pounds.

All rates are based on fees in Euros. The fees are based on the category of the membership and on the Human Development Index of the country (<https://iaevg.com/Membership#Categories>).

Call for volunteers

Are you a native speaker of French, German or Spanish?

The International Journal of Educational and Vocational Guidance is continually in need of volunteers to translate article abstracts. We are currently in need of additional volunteers who can translate English-language abstracts into French, German and Spanish. Typically, volunteers translate one 100-word abstract once every month or two, for a total of less than ten abstracts a year. In exchange for this valuable service to our scientific community, your name will be listed in our masthead and you will receive free access to the journal. We can also provide a testimonial letter about your involvement with the journal if needed. A degree of familiarity with the domain is needed, but translators who are at the stage of being a doctoral candidate are already welcome.
