Dear Colleagues, readers and friends:

We get closer to completing one more year, 2019. From where I sit, it looks like that we are on our way to completing another solid year in terms of submitted papers. The final count will be available in very early January 2020. In any case, the only comment I would like to make is that JINT is healthy and will remain healthy.

In terms of logistics, we will update the Editorial Board, effective January 1, 2020, and will add new members to lead with new and fresh ideas. You will be informed in every step of the way. In the meantime, send us your comments and feedback, tell us your opinion.

Enjoy the issue.
