Dear Colleagues:
Summer is progressing, but there is no vacation for us (yet). We have kept our promise and we have reduced considerably the paper review cycle – though, we do know that on occasion there are under review papers for longer than expected time. Moreover, we have managed to reduce the complete cycle from first submission to actual publication. This has been quite a challenge because we also want to plan and schedule in advance completed future issues. Regardless, we learn, and we have learned from this process. The best is ahead of us and our goal is to switch to continuous publications; if successful, peer reviewed papers will be published once they are accepted in final form, with minor delays.

We urge you to take advantage of the summer months and submit your papers to JINT. We are here to serve you.

Enjoy the issue.
