I am pleased to inform you that, with the start of Volume 7, Valentino Dardanoni (Universita di Palermo) is becoming co-editor of the Journal. Valentino's advice and expertise inter alia on multidimensional inequality, mobility, statistical inference, and applied econometrics has been very useful to the Journal in the past few years. We look forward to the Journal benefitting even more directly from his guidance in the future. He will be joining Andrea Brandolini, Francisco Ferreira, Yves Flueckiger, Buhong Zheng and myself as editors.

I am also pleased to announce that Xavi Ramos (Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona) is now the new Book Review Editor. Xavi has wide interests in the areas covered by the Journal, including the economics of poverty, income dynamics, redistribution policies, applied micro-econometrics, and equality of opportunity. This will certainly help him bring important books to the attention of the Journal's readership. May I also use this opportunity to thank Brian Nolan for the services he has rendered to the Journal as Book Review Editor since the start of the Journal.

Finally, the co-editors and myself are delighted to let you know that the Journal of Economic Inequality has been accepted by ISI for inclusion in the Social Science Citation Index. The SSCI is an important indicator in many parts of the world for ranking journals. This is a testimony to the quality of the papers that the Journal has been able to publish in the last few years.
