Correction to: Int J Ment Health Addiction

<https://doi.org/10.1007/s11469-021-00606-y>

Due to an error in the production process, the version of this article that was originally published incorrectly had reference citations placed in the Findings section of the article instead of participant codes [1-23] next to the quotes or passages that were related to them. There should be no reference citations in the Findings section, and instead there should be participant codes in their place.

The original article has been corrected.
