Correction to: Like Pulling Teeth: Relationships Between Material Culture and Osteology at the Milwaukee County Poor Farm Cemetery, Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, USA

Jessica L. Skinner, Department of Anthropology, University of Wisconsin–
Milwaukee, 3413 N Downer Avenue, Milwaukee, WI 53211, USA
E-mail: Skinner4@uwm.edu

Correction to:

Archaeologies: Journal of the World Archaeological Congress (2020)

<https://doi.org/10.1007/s11759-020-09395-7>

The original version of the article unfortunately omitted the acknowledgements section. This section is included below. This has been corrected by publishing this correction article.

Acknowledgements

I am exceptionally grateful to Dr. Patricia Richards, whose mentorship and support made this article possible. Many thanks to Dr. Shannon Freire and Catherine Jones for organizing, with Dr. Richards, “The Red Shoes: Toward a Materialized Relationship Between the Living and the Dead” symposium that led to the creation of this paper, and for their indefatigable editorial and moral support. I extend my gratitude to the University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee Archaeological Research Laboratory—for the privilege of working on this project, and to family and friends for their encouragement. My thanks are also to the editors and reviewers of Archaeologies for their guidance and constructive feedback. Most of all I am indebted to and humbled by the individuals from the MCPFC; I’m grateful to learn what it means to be human from each of you.

Publisher’s Note Springer Nature remains neutral with regard to jurisdictional claims in published maps and institutional affiliations.