Correction to: Journal of International Migration and Integration <https://doi.org/10.1007/s12134-021-00869-3>

The original version of the article unfortunately contained these fine errors:

1. Page 4, last paragraph of 'Diverse Perspectives on International Graduates' Employability and Communication Competencies' section, there is an unnecessary blank line added between Items 1 and 2. The list should be presented as below:

1. What limitations...
2. How can...
3. How do...

2. Page 6, last paragraph of 'Theoretical Framework' section, there are three places where 'author' should be replaced by the real references. They should be presented as below:

1. Most recently, Pham (2020) and ...

3. Page 9, at the end of the first excerpt in the section 'Enhancing Expected Communication Competencies as a Navigation Strategy' there should be '—pseudonyms'. The excerpt should look like below:

I tried to learn authentic language on social media like Facebook and LinkedIn because they suited daily conversations more, and I could speak like Aussies [Australians] ... Imagine I have been here for six years and it is a 'must' for me to work on at least my English. (Jay – pseudonyms)

4. Page 12, at the beginning of 'Going Beyond Structural Barriers as a Navigation Strategy' section, there is unnecessary broken line.

These lines should be continuously connected like this:

Hoa experienced a dilemma that Rizvi (2009, p. 261) described as people finding themselves being pulled between ...

5. Page 14, the last paragraph under 'Discussion and Conclusion', Author should be replaced by a real reference.
