'Acoustic Shadows'

Serie Barford

there are wider narratives than glossy brochures indigenous children smiling on postcards maps constructed from satellite images or state approved versions of events just wallow in acoustic shadows my friend and disrupted narratives will seep in deftly shift factual survey pegs recolour heroes and timelines transform the intellectual terrain you've confidently navigated for years you'll no longer gush at vantage views signposted for the one-eyed tourists for the channel where your thoughts travel will be dredged to include other realities and the earth, the sea and the sky will call to patterns in your blood that glimmer in our sacred shadows
