Notes on Contributors

Contemporary Political Theory (2012) 11, 241. doi:10.1057/cpt.2012.11

Miguel Vatter is a Professor of Political Science at the Universidad Diego Portales in Santiago, Chile. His areas of research are republicanism, biopolitics and political theology. He is the Editor of Crediting God: Sovereignty and Religion in the Age of Global Capitalism (Fordham University Press, 2010), and he has recently published 'Eternal Life and Biopower' in New Centennial Review 10(3) (2011): 217–249. He also has an article on Kant's philosophy of law forthcoming in Political Theory.

Jennet Kirkpatrick is a Lecturer in Political Science at the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor, USA. She is the author of Uncivil Disobedience (Princeton University Press, 2008).

Andrea Baumeister is a Senior Lecturer in Politics at the University of Stirling, UK. Her current research focuses on the role of religion in the public realm and the relationship between gender equality and cultural justice. She is the author of Liberalism and the Politics of Difference (Edinburgh University Press, 2000).

Nicholas Tampio is an Assistant Professor of Political Science at Fordham University, USA. He has published an article 'Constructing the Space of Testimony: Tariq Ramadan's Copernican Revolution' in Political Theory 39(6) (2011). He is currently revising a book manuscript Advancing the Enlightenment: Kantian Courage in Contemporary Political Theory.