Notes on Contributors

Contemporary Political Theory (2013) 12, 79. doi:10.1057/cpt.2013.10

John G. Gunnell is the Distinguished Professor Emeritus at the State University of New York, Albany and currently a Research Associate in the Department of Political Science at the University of California, Davis. His fields of research are political theory and the philosophy and history of social science. Recent publications include Political Theory and Social Science: Cutting Against the Grain (Palgrave Macmillan, 2012) and 'Unpacking Emotional Baggage in Political Theory', in Essays in Neuroscience and Political Theory, ed. Frank Vander Valk (Routledge, 2012).

Sergei Prozorov is the Academy of Finland Research Fellow at the Department of Political and Economic Studies at the University of Helsinki. He is the author of four monographs, the most recent being The Ethics of Postcommunism (Palgrave Macmillan, 2009). He has also published articles on political philosophy and international relations in Theory, Culture and Society, Philosophy and Social Criticism, Continental Philosophy Review, Political Geography, International Theory and other journals. His research interests include continental political philosophy, world politics and global governmentality, biopolitics and totalitarianism.

Nick O'Donovan's research focuses on the twentieth-century political theory, in particular, the works of German writers such as Carl Schmitt, Theodor Adorno and Jürgen Habermas. He has recently published an article, 'Causes and Consequences: Responsibility in the Political Thought of Max Weber', in Polity (43: 84–105).