LETTER FROM THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Over the past three years Steve Kobrin has done an excellent job in obtaining quality book reviews for JIBS. Change is inevitable, however. Since Steve has just left NYU for Wharton and has recently been elected Program Chairman for the International Management Division of the Academy of Management, it was felt by all involved that this was the right time for a new Book Review Editor.

Doug Nigh has agreed to replace Steve. This arrangement should work out very well indeed, since Doug has joined our faculty at the University of South Carolina (where publishers send new books for review consideration).

We all extend our thanks to Steve for a job well done; we also extend our support to Doug as he assumes his new duties. With the continued support of our readers, we know that JIBS will maintain the strong tradition begun by our first Editor-in-Chief and first Book Review Editor, Bill Ogram.

David A. Ricks