Letter from the Editor-in-Chief

In keeping with the current JIBS policy of changing the Editorial Board every two years and thus allowing more people to share in the responsibilities, a new Editorial Board has been appointed. The two-year terms of the previous board members expired in 1988. Our past board members worked extremely hard and did an excellent job of producing high quality reviews in a record turn around time average (59 days vs. previous averages as high as 122 days).

On behalf of the Academy of International Business, I would like to thank all those who have served JIBS for a job well done. I would also like to welcome our new board members and express my appreciation for their willingness to serve.

The new Editorial Board will experience something unique in its term when JIBS becomes a quarterly journal beginning next year. This means that we will have more space to publish quality articles. So when you have completed a major research project, we hope that you will think of us first and remember that (1) we have a record of excellent reviews with rapid turnaround time, and (2) we now have more space for your quality research papers.

David A. Ricks