Thanks to Reviewers

URBAN DESIGN International (2007) 12, 67. doi:10.1057/palgrave.udi.9000186

Each year Urban Design International receives a larger number of papers and we send many out to review. We send each article to two reviewers with expertise in the subject area, and we are totally dependent upon their voluntary assistance. We get invaluable help from our reviewers, because they do much more than indicate their opinions about whether or not to publish a manuscript and often take a great interest in commenting on a submission. We trust our reviewers and we deeply appreciate them for what they do to help the authors of submitted work and for their indirect help in improving the quality and integrity of this Journal. Thus thanks to the reviewers of the past and in particular those people who have, until now, been anonymous in their contribution to the last three volumes.
