The American Association for Cancer Research (AACR) is a scientific society of over 17,000 laboratory and clinical cancer researchers. It was founded in 1907 to facilitate communication and dissemination of knowledge among scientists and others dedicated to the cancer problem, and to foster research in cancer and related biomedical sciences. It is also dedicated to encouraging the presentation and discussion of new and important observations in the field, fostering public education, science education and training, and advancing the understanding of cancer aetiology, prevention, diagnosis and treatment throughout the world.

American Association for Cancer Research Anna D. Barker Basic Cancer Research Fellowship

Subjects: This fellowship provides a one-year grant of US$50,000 to support the salary and benefits of the fellow while working on a mentored basic cancer research project. A partial amount of funds may be designated for non-personnel expenses, such as research/laboratory supplies, equipment, publication charges for manuscripts that pertain directly to the funded project, and other research expenses

Purpose: The AACR Anna D. Barker Basic Cancer Research Fellowship encourages and supports postdoctoral or clinical research fellows to establish a successful career path in cancer research. The research proposed for funding may be in any area of basic cancer research

Eligibility: Applicants must have a doctoral degree (including PhD, MD, DO, DC, ND, DDS, DVM, ScD, DNS, PharmD, or equivalent) in a related field and not currently be a candidate for a further doctoral degree. Applicants must: 1. Hold a mentored research position with the title of postdoctoral fellow, clinical research fellow, or the equivalent. i. If eligibility is based on a future position, the position must be confirmed at the time of application and CANNOT be contingent upon receiving this grant. ii. If the future position is at a different institution than the applicant's current institution, the applicant must contact AACR's Scientific Review and Grants Administration Department (AACR's SRGA) at 28Tgrants@aacr.org before submitting their application for information on additional verification materials/signatures that may be required. 2. Have completed their most recent doctoral degree within the past three years (i.e., degree cannot have been conferred before 1 July; the formal date of receipt of doctoral degree is the date the degree was conferred, as indicated on their diploma and/or transcript). i. Applicants with a medical degree must have completed their most recent doctoral degree or medical residency - whichever date is later - within the past three years. 3. Work under the auspices of a mentor at an academic, medical, or research institution anywhere in the world (There are no citizenship or geographic requirements. However, by submitting a Letter of Intent for this grant, an applicant applying from an institution located in a country in which they are not a citizen or a permanent resident assures that the visa status will provide sufficient time to complete the project and grant term at the institution from which they applied)

AstraZeneca Stimulating Therapeutic
Advancements through Research Training (START) Grants

Subjects: Each fellowship provides a three-year grant of US$2,25,000 to support the salary and benefits of the fellow while working on a mentored cancer research project. Applicants must plan to spend one year on site at an AstraZeneca facility. One of a number of AstraZeneca's locations are possible, at the discretion of AstraZeneca. The year at AstraZeneca will be determined on a case-by-case basis, and will be at a time agreed upon by the fellow, the academic supervisor, the AstraZeneca mentor, and AstraZeneca. The research proposed for funding must have direct applicability to cancer with a specific focus on DNA Damage Response (DDR) pathways and may be basic, translational, or clinical in nature. Any proposals that address topics unrelated to DNA Damage Response pathways in cancer will NOT be accepted

Purpose: Dramatic advances made in recent years towards precision medicine initiatives, biomarker and novel target identification, and high-throughput examination of genomic data, have resulted in a trove of valuable data that can inform the development of new therapeutics to combat cancer. However, to effectively harness this wealth of information and advance the discovery and development of new therapies for cancer patients, enhanced collaboration between academia and industry will be needed. The AACR-AstraZeneca

Stimulating Therapeutic Advancements through Research Training (START) Grants represent an exciting new initiative to encourage and support such collaboration. This novel model, which will provide support to postdoctoral or clinical research fellows, combines research experiences in both an academic and industry setting, following a research timeline that will be of greatest benefit to the proposed work. The training provided through this grant program will be invaluable to young investigators, by allowing fellows to attain a comprehensive research experience that will make them highly desirable to potential employers in either academic research or the pharmaceutical industry. Likewise, academic research centers and industry will benefit from the introduction of such dual-trained individuals into the field

Eligibility: APPLICANT ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA Applicants must have a doctoral degree (including PhD, MD, DO, DC, ND, DDS, DVM, ScD, DNS, PharmD, or equivalent) in a related field and not currently be a candidate for a further doctoral degree. At the start of the grant term on 1 July, applicants must: 1. Hold a full-time, mentored research position with the title of postdoctoral fellow, clinical research fellow, or the equivalent; this position must have been held for at least one, but not more than three, years. i. If eligibility is based on a future position, the position must be confirmed at the time of application, and CANNOT be contingent upon receiving this grant. ii. If the future position is at a different institution than the applicant's current institution, the applicant must contact AACR's Scientific Review and Grants Administration Department (AACR's SRGA) at grants@aacr.org before submitting their application for information on additional verification materials/signatures that may be required. 2. Have completed their most recent doctoral degree within the past one to three years (i.e., degree cannot have been conferred before 1 July; the formal date of receipt of doctoral degree is the date the degree was conferred, as indicated on their diploma and/or transcript). i. Applicants with a medical degree must have completed their most recent doctoral degree or medical residency - whichever date is later - within the past three years. 3. Work under the auspices of a mentor at an academic, medical, or research institution in the United States of America (there are no citizenship requirements. However, by submitting an application for this grant, the applicant who is not a United States citizen or a permanent resident assures that the visa status will provide sufficient time to complete the project and grant term)

American Association of University Women Community Action Grants

Subjects: All subjects

Purpose: To provide seed money to individual women, local community-based non-profit organizations, AAUW branches and AAUW state organizations for innovative programmes or non-degree research projects that engage girls in mathematics, science and technology

Eligibility: Applicants must be women who are citizens or permanent residents of the United States of America. Special consideration will be given to AAUW members and AAUW branch and state applicants who seek partners for collaborative projects. Collaborators can include local schools or school districts, businesses and other community-based organizations. 2-year grants are restricted to projects focused on girls' achievement in mathematics, science or technology. Projects must involve community and school collaboration. The fund supports planning and coalition-building activities during the 1st year and implementation and evaluation the following year

Type: Grant

Value: US$2,000–7,000 (1-year grant); US$5,000–10,000 (2-year grant)

Length of Study: 1 or 2 years

Frequency: Annual

Application Procedure: Applicants must write for an application form, which is also available from the website

Closing Date: 15 January

Funding: Private

Additional Information: Please note that materials sent to the Washington, DC office will be disqualified and will not be reviewed. Two types of grant are available: 1-year grants are for short-term projects. Topic areas are unrestricted but should have a clearly defined educational activity; 2-year grants are for longer term programmes and are restricted to projects focused on K-12 girls achievement in mathematics, science and/or technology. Funds support planning activities and coalition-building during the 1st year and implementation and evaluation the following year

American Cancer Society International Fellowships for Beginning Investigators

Subjects: Epidemiology, prevention, detection, causation, diagnosis, treatment, psycho-oncology

Purpose: To foster a bi-directional flow of knowledge, experience, expertise, and innovation to and from the United States of America. To enable beginning investigators and clinicians, who are in the early stages of their careers, to carry out basic or clinical research projects and to develop, acquire and apply advanced research procedures and techniques

Eligibility: Eligible candidates should hold assistant professorships or similar positions at their home institutes and have a minimum of two and a maximum of 10 years of postdoctoral experience after obtaining their MD or PhD degrees or equivalents. Awards are conditional on the return of the Fellow to the home institute at the end of the Fellowship and on the availability of appropriate facilities and resources to develop the newly acquired skills. No extensions are permitted. Candidates who are already physically present at the proposed host institution whilst their applications are under consideration are not eligible

Level of Study: Postdoctorate

Type: Fellowship

Value: An average value of US$36,000 for travel and stipend support

The American Chemical Society is a self-governed individual membership organization that consists of more than 160,000 members at all degree levels and in all fields of chemistry. The organization provides a broad range of opportunities for peer interaction and career development, regardless of professional or scientific interests. The program and activities conducted by ACS today are the products of a tradition of excellence in meeting member needs that dates from the Society's founding in 1876.

Grants for Public Projects

Purpose: Through its public project grants, ASF funds a wide variety of programs that bring American and Scandinavian culture, art and thought to public audiences. The American-Scandinavian Foundation promotes the cultures of the Nordic countries in the United States and American culture in the Nordic countries by encouraging programs that will enhance public appreciation of culture, art, and thought

Eligibility: Must be a non-profit organization and the project must be open to the public. ASF's funding priority has traditionally been to underwrite public programming and defined events. Awards are given to non-profit organizations only. Proof of an organization's non-profit status (as a 501(c)(3) in the United States or equivalent in Scandinavia) is required. ASF does NOT support: 1. Capital expenses. 2. Institutional overhead and other administrative fees. 3. Underwriting book, periodical or website publication. 4. Production of commercial CDs or cassettes. 5. Conference participation or conference registration for individuals. However, general conference expenses such as costs for special invitees/speakers can be supported. 6. Participation in studio residencies other than those with which ASF already has an ongoing affiliation. 7. Retroactive funding. Projects cannot begin before the decision announcement date. 8. The maximum award amount is US$5,000; however, average grants range between US$1,000 to US$2,000. The Arts Council, the development agency for the arts in Ireland, exists to promote and support the arts. Its core functions are to support the creation and dissemination of the work of Irish artists in all disciplines, and to promote public access to, and participation in, the contemporary arts. The Council expresses its support to the artist in a variety of ways, through grant aid to organisations, events and production companies, and more explicitly through award schemes where the primary relationship is between the artist and the Council. Their principal strategies are improving the professional formation, practice and career development of artists, directing funding towards excellence and innovation in the promotion of the arts and supporting artists working through Irish in indigenous arts to achieve their full potential and increase audiences.
