Notes on contributors

Comparative European Politics (2003) 1, 353. doi:10.1057/palgrave.cep.6110022

Johan Lembke is a Visiting Scholar and Adjunct Professor at the George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs (ESIA), and a research fellow at the Swedish Institute of International affairs. In early 2003, he published a book entitled Competition for Technological Leadership: EU High Technology Policy (Cheltenham, UK; Northampton, MA, USA: Edward Elgar Publishing).

John A. Gould is an Assistant Professor of Political Science at Colorado College. Past work includes, 'Ideas and the Politics of Transformation in the Czech and Slovak Republics' (2000) with Hilary Appel and Slovakia: Problems of Democratic Consolidation and the Struggle for the Rules of the Game (1998) co-edited with Sona Szomolanyi.

Jenny Fairbrass is a Senior Research Associate in the Centre for Social and Economic Research on the Global Environment (CSERGE) at the University of East Anglia. She is working on an ESRC-funded project on multi-level governance, examining the impact of the UK devolution on environmental decision-making.

Rosa Mulé is a Senior Lecturer in Comparative Politics at the University of Warwick and Associate Professor of Political Science at Bologna University. She has written extensively in the fields of social policy, democracy and redistribution and on the politics of income inequality.