AGIFORS Reservations and Yield Management

Spring 2009 dates and location to be advised

The Revenue Management Study Group offers the latest in innovation on airline operations research as it applies to revenue management. All topics in the area of reservations and revenue management systems and activities are covered by this Study Group of AGIFORS. These include revenue optimisation, over-booking management, demand forecasting, distribution channel issues and some marketing issues. Recent topics of presentations include revenue integrity, revenue management without restrictions, O&D forecasting and control, migration from leg-based to O&D-based systems, O&D abuse, forecast unconstraining and cargo revenue management. Representatives from airlines, air transport associations, universities, industrial research labs and consultants will discuss new ideas and present technical papers. Come and share with us your ideas, thoughts, current trends, philosophies and latest technological advances on any of the above or related topics.
