In this article the Analysis section, there is a change in sentence starting “When it comes to the media influence on audiences (RQ2), there is an overall consensus among MPs participating in the debates that the media does increase support for terrorism, and that it does not lead individuals to participate in political violence” should instead have referred to “When it comes to the media influence on audiences (RQ2), there is an overall consensus among MPs participating in the debates that the media does not increase support for terrorism, and that it does not lead individuals to participate in political violence”. The original article has been corrected.
