Medvene LJ, Wescott JV, Huckstadt A, et al. Promoting Signing of Advance Directives in Faith Communities. J Gen Intern Med. 2003; 18:914–920. In the above-cited article, on page 918, there are errors in the column headings for Table 2. Table 2 should read as follows:

Table 2. Congregants Who Completed the Generation to Generation Program
Comparisons of Non-Signers/Revisers Versus Signers/Revisers

Variable	Non-Sign/Revise (N = 159)	Sign/Revise (N = 89)	P Values
Mean age, y (SD)	56 (14.7)	57 (12.8)	.44
Married, %	80	87	.182
Female, %	42	42	.98
Belief: "will be denied medical care because of advance directive," mean (SD) [†]	0.338 (.87)	−0.111 (1.03)	.004
Decisional balance scale: positive minus negative beliefs, mean (SD) [‡]	1.54 (.68)	2.39(.87)	.01
Program participation
Contact with nurse, %	62	78	.02
Read workbook, %	68	93	.001
Complete exercises, %	48	72	.004

* Participants in the "Non-Sign/Revise" category neither signed a directive for the first time, nor revised an existing document. Participants in the "Sign/Revise category" either signed a document for the first time, or revised an existing document.

[†] Scores were standardized because participants responded to this item on a 7-point Likert scale during the first 2 years and a 5-point Likert scale for the last 2 years. Standardizing scores involves subtracting each score from the mean and dividing by the standard deviation. This produces a common metric with a mean of 0 and a standard deviation of 1.

[‡] Scores ranged from 0 to 3.6.
