

author's correction notice

New Evidence on the Value of Birth Expectations, by Martin O'Connell and Maurice J. Moore, Demography 14, 3 (August 1977), pp. 255-264.

On p. 258, the sentence beginning at the bottom of the first column and continuing for the first five lines of the second column should be corrected to read:

“The inclusion of more recently married women in a cohort tends to lower the lifetime birth expectations of all currently married women in a cohort, because of the negative relationship between age at first marriage and birth expectations.”