

Biographical Sketch of Curtis N. Rhodes, Jr. PhD

Curtis N. Rhodes, Jr., PhD was born and raised near Charlotte, NC. He completed a BS in Microbiology and Public Health at Michigan State University (1971), an MPH in Parasitology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (1976), an MS (1978) and PhD (1980) degrees in the Department of Veterinary Science, University of Wisconsin at Madison (1980). He has resided in the Middle East (Lebanon, Syria, Egypt, Cyprus and Jordan) since 1981. He served as Assistant Dean in the School of Public Health at the American University of Beirut (1981–84); and directed the Near East Foundation in Amman, Jordan (1990–95). Dr. Rhodes founded Questscope (an international non-governmental organization for social development) in 1988 and has been President/International Director of Questscope, based in Amman, Jordan since that date. He has conducted programs in the Middle East for disadvantaged women and youth for almost twenty years; funded by the World Bank, the European Union, USAID, UNICEF, UNODC, various governmental agencies (Canadian, Dutch, Swedish, Japanese and Jordanian), and individual and corporate donors in the UK and USA.

He is a member of the Scientific and Technical Committee for the Child Protection Initiative for the Middle East and North Africa of the Arab Urban Development Institute (AUDI) in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia and sits as an advisor to HM Queen Rania Al Abdullah on the Scientific and Technical Advisory Committee of the National Council for Family Affairs. He is adjunct practice advisor to the Search Institute (Minneapolis, MN) in a Templeton Grant for Child and Adolescent Spiritual Development. He is a Trustee of the Consortium for Street Children, London, England and is also a consultant to the World Bank and the Government of Jordan for issues of disadvantaged children.

Dr. Rhodes is the author or coauthor of various publications and articles related to impact assessment of individual competence and social integration of disadvantaged Arab children (in English); holistic program design for mainstreaming disadvantaged children (also in English); and a five-volume set of manuals for Mentoring “At Risk” Children in Jordan (in Arabic with English translation). He is a contributor to the Jacobs Foundation Series on Adolescence in Youth and Cities: A Cross-National Perspective.

Dr Rhodes is a member of the International Society for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (ISPCAN), the American Scientific Affiliation and mentioned in Who's Who of Professionals in 1997.
